

History Of Bridal Shower Invites

A bridal shower is a party which is organized few days before a wedding ceremony and in this party the relatives and friends of the bride give gifts to the new couple. The origins of bridal shower parties are found in United States and near about 1860s such occasions were also organized in Brussels. It is believed that bridal shower invites practices have grown out of earlier dowry traditions when poor people might not have the wealth to afford dowry. Hence, bridal shower offers a different way of collecting dowry for the bride and because of the simplicity of the occasion is common in various cultures. Nowadays, bridal shower invites are very popular in United States, Canada and Western countries.

Bridal Shower invites are coordinated by bridesmaids and the invitations are sent to the guests to offer gifts for the home of the new couple. When the practice of bridal shower invites started in United States round about 1890s, it was more common in the rural areas and in the upper class and middle class. However, till 1930s, bridal shower invites were being recognized in rural America as well. Typically, bridal shower invitations are held before the wedding ceremonies and not the engagement parties.

It was considered that bridal showers may not turn into big parties and get together therefore, after the introduction of bridal showers, in 1920 a guide to bridal shower was introduced which gave bridal shower etiquettes. A guide to bridal shower invitations were first developed in 1920s, and it was suggested at that time that bridal shower invitations should be purely spontaneous and informal. For avoiding expenses and huge costs on bridal shower invitations, the emphasis is given on the simplicity of the event. Nowadays, bridal shower invitations are based on complex themes and special games are also organized for such events. Most of the communities consider that maid of honor should be responsible for organizing bridal showers. In some communities bridal shower invitations are given to the relatives and friends of both the families.

Before four to six weeks of wedding bridal showers are organized and relatives and friends of the bride buy the gift at least one month before the wedding, so that in the case of the spontaneous invitation they may give the gift. The guests are invited by sending the bridal shower invitations. Some people also get the customized wedding card invitations for the bridal shower parties. Many couples like to design their bridal shower cards on their own. On typical bridal shower almost all relatives and friends are invited for example, in Canada community halls adjust about 300 guests normally. In order to avoid expenses, some communities emphasize intimate parties with close relatives and friends only. In addition, wealthy families go for special themes and decorations on these event. Therefore, the concept of bridal shower invitations is very attractive.
